

before the beginning of next week. I then visited the billboard at 1560 Broadway, a theatrical publication for the purpose of securing Herman Blumenfield's present whereabouts, they also informed me that the man who has charge of this department is away. I then questioned another member of this organization and he was unable to give me any information on Blumenfield.

On this day I was also informed by my stenographer that a man named Bailey called me up at 2:30 P.M. and wanted to see me, as he had a case he wanted me to work on. He left no telephone number but said he would call up again at 4 P.M. on this day. When 4 P.M. came he did not call but instead two men appeared, one of them did all the talking and gave his name as Torpey. He would give the girl no information saying he wanted to see me on a personal matter and making an appointment with me for 10:30 A.M. on the morning of Sept. 23rd, 1926. This man had a few newspapers under his arm. When I returned to the office about 4:40 P.M. the stenographer gave me the said information. After this I also visited Mr. Pfeiffer's office and gave Mr. Palzer a verbal report of my work. At 7 P.M. I called up Mr. Pfeiffer at the Hotel Stacy Trent in Trenton, N.J.

Respectfully submitted,

DeM